Design.

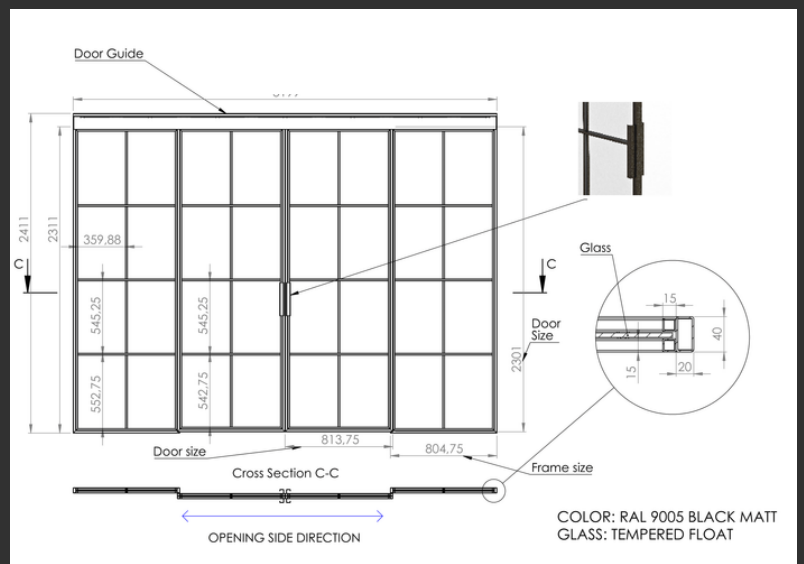

Inspiration provided by the client.

Having a clearly defined vision from the client is always beneficial when working on a project. In the case of our Herefordshire project, the client provided our design team with detailed CAD images outlining their desired outcome.

For this particular project, the client wanted a double door set and a double sliding door set, along with fixed side screens, to create a separate reception room within their open-plan home. Our doors provided the client with the flexibility to open up the space or keep it closed off from the rest of the house, while still allowing ample natural light to flow throughout the property.

3 Cross Bar Design.

Our Herefordshire project client requested that our design team produce visuals of their project featuring both three and four vertical Cross Bars. Our team quickly created visual representations of the two Cross Bar designs.

Following a thoughtful evaluation process by the client, they ultimately decided to proceed with the 3 vertical Cross Bar design. This particular design produced a larger pane of glass look, thereby creating a more open and free-flowing aesthetic for the space.

The property underwent a significant transformation from our initial survey to project completion, resulting in an almost unrecognizable interior.

BEFORE

AFTER

The complete refurbishment included updates to everything from the flooring to the kitchen. Our Cross Bar doors served as an ideal solution, providing the client with the desired separate reception room while still maintaining a sense of connection to the rest of the property.

DOUBLE SLIDING DOOR SET.

BEFORE

Our Cross Bar doors can add a significant amount of character to a property, as demonstrated by this particular project.

During the installation of the side screens on the sliding double door set, we utilized a minimal number of shallow fasteners due to the presence of underfloor heating beneath the wood flooring.

The property features black painted structural steel beams that run throughout. Our doors serve as a wonderful complement to these beams, effectively tying the entire space together.

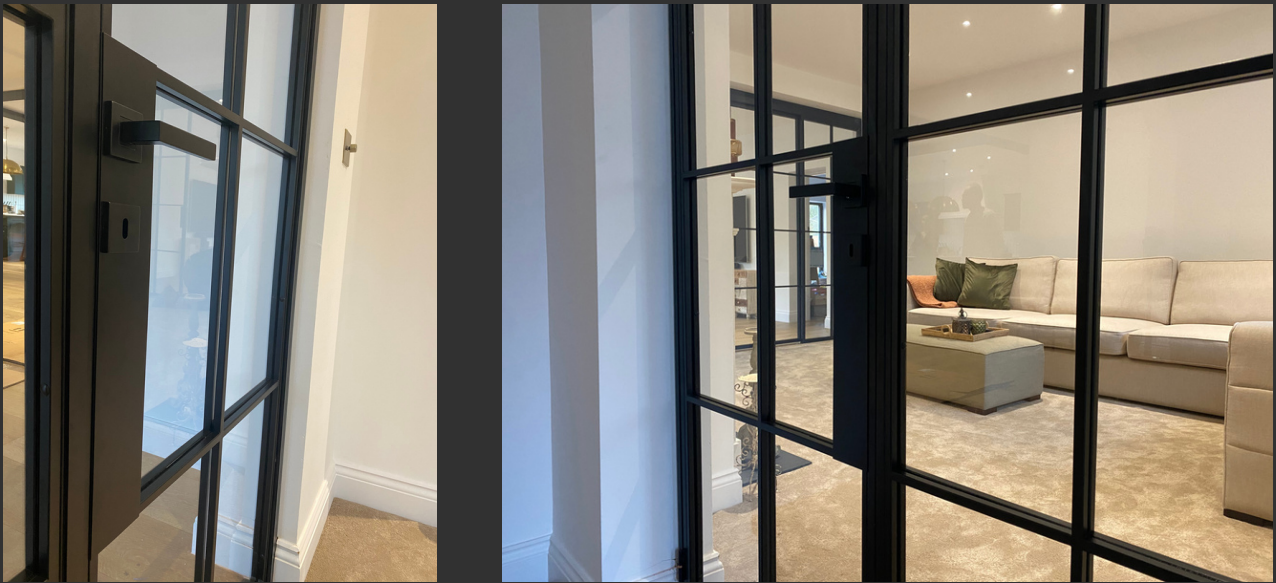

The sliding door on this project served as an exceptional addition, effectively completing the space and providing an ideal solution for the area.

In addition to its attractive appearance, our sliding double door set also offers a significant level of practicality by providing easy access to the space when opened up.

CLIENTS COMMENT.

"Found Joshua James online and was impressed with the products they had to offer. After designing and quoting I decided to proceed and the results of the two sets of doors that I ordered are fantastic. I couldn't be happier with the look and finish of them."
